

Cigna Expands Global Presence to Singapore; Introduces Premier Group Health Care Product

SINGAPORE, March 31, 2011 - Cigna (NYSE: CI), the global leader in serving expatriates and other globally mobile employees, officially launched its health services benefits office in Singapore today, as well as its Premier Executive Health Care Plan for employers seeking coverage for their workforce. The local branch and health care plan offers a comprehensive and cost-effective product that offers access to high-quality health care facilities across the globe.

The Premier Executive Health Care Plan covers:

- Medical benefits – inpatient and outpatient
- Supplementary benefits – dental, vision care, wellness and maternity

According to the company, the Singapore market entry is a strategic step as part of Cigna's global expansion plans. The Singapore branch will strengthen Cigna's capabilities in offering its solutions to clients on a global basis.

"Singapore is an important market for us because of its choice location within Asia and the fact that many of our clients and customers are located here," said Ken Vaughan, managing director for Cigna's Asia Pacific region. "Our expansion into Singapore demonstrates our commitment to our clients and customers in the local market and their evolving needs in the international market."

As a fully licensed insurer in Singapore, Cigna will offer customers easy access to quality health care services at a competitive fee through its relationship with one of the largest private medical providers in Singapore.

Cigna's global health care experts will work closely with Singapore businesses to choose the ideal globally compliant solution for their local and international employees. With a Singapore-based sales and client management team, the company will be able to respond effectively to market demands.

Cigna covers 800,000 globally mobile individuals around the world with licenses in 28 countries and jurisdictions. Cigna's worldwide network includes 900,000 hospitals, physicians, dental offices and behavioral specialist locations. The company's portfolio offers a full range of benefits and flexibility that allow employers to shape their health care programs to suit their business objectives and meet the needs of their globally mobile workforce.
