Phenytoin Oral Suspension

About this recall.

Your safety, health and well-being are important to us. We want to let you know that on February 20, 2020, Taro Pharmaceuticals U.S.A., Inc. announced a voluntary, nationwide recall of two lots (or batches) of Phenytoin Oral Suspension, 125 mg/5 ml in 237 mL bottles. These are the affected medications.

Medication Name/Strength	Lot Number*	Expiration Date
Phenytoin Oral Suspension, 125 mg/5 ml in 237 mL bottles	327874	December 2020
Phenytoin Oral Suspension, 125 mg/5 ml in 237 mL bottles	327876	December 2020

Why this medication was recalled.

These two lots may not completely mix when shaken, which could cause under or overdosing.

What this medication is used to treat.

Phenytoin oral suspension is used to treat grand mal and temporal lobe seizures.

Check the label on your medication to see if it was recalled.

Look for the information listed above. If your lot number and expiration date match, your medication was recalled. If they don't match, your medication wasn't recalled. If you need help finding this information, you can contact the pharmacy that filled your prescription.
